

Education for Humanity

Digital learning. In-person support. University credit. Workplace competencies.

In collaboration with on-the-ground partners, Arizona State University (ASU) creates and implements relevant and integrative higher education programs with refugee communities around the world to foster hope, community prosperity, social progress, and inclusivity.

Arizona State University Charter

“ASU is a comprehensive public research university, measured not by whom it excludes, but by whom it includes and how they succeed; advancing research and discovery of public value; and assuming fundamental responsibility for the economic, social, cultural and overall health of the communities it serves.”

Current Programs

Since 2017, Education for Humanity has reached over 15,000 learners across 25 countries around the globe. Offering blended courses with in-country partners, ASU is working with UNHCR to support learners in reaching their educational ambitions in Chad

"Since my childhood, I have had a dream of being an entrepreneur by being able to create a new job instead of working for others. With this, I am confident that this Entrepreneurship Program will help me to reach my dream of creating my own job and providing job opportunities to other people in the community...I had a business in the past, but due to fewer skills, I failed and I am looking to see my dream achieved"
